Overview

How much does electricity cost in Thailand?

Cost of Electricity in Thailand – The cost of electricity is high in Thailand, especially compared to salaries. If you live in a serviced apartment, the charge per electricity unit is even higher, so be careful how long you run air conditioners for. I live in a one-bedroom serviced apartment and my electricity bill every month is over $130.

Is electricity efficient in Thailand?

Thai electricity is efficient (unless Thailand is in the middle of monsoon weather) but the high cost can be frustrating. Electricity in Thailand is easy to get connected though and easy to pay for when the electricity bill arrives. Electricity Voltage in Thailand – Electricity in Thailand is 220 volts and power outlets are not usually earthed.

What is the electricity voltage in Thailand?

Electricity Voltage in Thailand – Electricity in Thailand is 220 volts and power outlets are not usually earthed. That can lead to lots of sparks when you plug in an appliance and some scary moments occasionally if you don't do it quite right.

What type of power outlet does Thailand use?

Thailand uses power outlets and plugs of types A, B, C & O. Take a look at the pictures below to see what these plugs and power sockets look like: Doesn't look familiar?

Do the outlets look different in your country?

You'll need a power plug adapter. Type A - Mostly used in the US, Canada, Mexico, Central America, China and Japan.

How do expats get electricity in Thailand?

Getting Electricity in Thailand – If, like many expats, you live in a serviced apartment in Thailand, the electricity bill will be billed by the apartment building and you will just pay them.

How do I pay my electricity bill in Thailand?

How To Pay Your Electricity Bill in Thailand – Paying an electricity bill in Thailand is easy. The bill will be mailed to you once a month and you can pay at any 7-Eleven, most department stores, the post office or just mail it in. I have always paid mine at a 7-Eleven as there is one on practically every street corner in Bangkok.
